BURBANK, Calif., May 31, 2018 — Southwest Airlines announced this morning that it will begin daily Sunday-Friday nonstop service between Hollywood Burbank Airport (BUR) and Chicago Midway International Airport (MDW), as well as daily Sunday-Friday nonstop service between BUR and William P. Hobby Airport (HOU) in Houston, on November 4, 2018. Tickets for the new service are now available for purchase on www.southwest.com.

This new service increases convenience for Airport passengers traveling to the Midwest, as well as those making domestic and international connections at MDW and HOU. The addition of Chicago and Houston flights to the Airport's thirteen current destinations provides passengers with nonstop service to major cities across the United States, including the Bay Area, the Pacific Northwest and the East Coast. The new service continues the airlines' increased investment in Hollywood Burbank Airport as a convenient option for passengers traveling to and from the greater Los Angeles area.
